ADMINISTRATIVE AND LEADERSHIP EXPERIENCE

7/2022 to present Vice Provost and Dean, College of Arts, Sciences, and Education (CASE), Missouri University of Science and Technology

Missouri University of Science and Technology is an R1, land-grant institution with approximately 7,200 students. The College of Arts, Sciences, and Education (CASE) is made up of eleven units and offers more than 85 different academic options including certificates, minors, bachelor's, master's and doctoral degrees. The college has over 130 full-time faculty—including 19 endowed or named professors—66 staff, over 730 students (140 graduate students). CASE also hosts two ROTC programs, the Child Development Center, and the Ozark Research Field Station. Annually, the college delivers over 65,000 student credit hours and operates with a $20 million budget.

Key Accomplishments:

- Led the development and execution of a comprehensive strategic plan to guide academic growth, research expansion, enrollment, and fundraising priorities
- Expanded sponsored research funding from $8.2M (FY2023) to $14.5M (FY2024), with $10M+ secured to date in FY2026
- Increased philanthropic fundraising 21-fold (FY2023–FY2025), securing three endowed professorships, three estate gifts, and multiple new student scholarships
- Recruited 34 tenure-track and tenured faculty (38% female), including six endowed full professors, since July 2022

- Doubled the number of named professorships from five to ten and oversaw the promotion and tenure of 33 faculty members
- Expanded the college curriculum by 18 new academic programs, including:
 - Ph.D. programs in Biological Sciences and Psychological Science
 - B.S. and M.S. in Data Science (jointly with the College of Engineering)
 - B.S. in Biochemistry (in development)
 - 13 undergraduate and graduate certificates
- Increasing first-time college applications by 48% since 2022
- Designed and implemented the college's first three-year course plan, improving scheduling transparency and student progress to degree
- Oversaw external program reviews for six academic departments and standardized 120-credit-hour B.S. degree requirements across the college
- Implemented targeted academic success initiatives, including DFW rate reduction strategies in high-challenge disciplines and adoption of the ALEKS placement system in Mathematics
- Launched a curriculum development grant program to support interdisciplinary teaching and innovation
- Transitioned all summer offerings to a fully online, asynchronous model, expanding access and enrollment flexibility
- Expanded K–12 and community engagement through nine summer outreach camps
- Strengthened governance and accountability by revising key operational policies, requiring annual departmental activity reports, and implementing formal mentoring policies for tenure-track faculty
- Elevated the college's external profile through award-winning annual reports, a monthly newsletter reaching 4,000+ subscribers, new social media platforms, and a redesigned website
- Established the college's first Student Advisory Board and expanded opportunities for study abroad, traveling seminars, and project-based learning
- Created four new awards recognizing and celebrating staff excellence and contributions

8/2019-6/2022 Director of School of Public and International Affairs (SPIA), Virginia Tech (Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University)

The School of Public and International Affairs (SPIA), ranked among the top 15% of public policy schools nationwide, comprises four academic and research units: Urban Affairs and Planning (accredited by the Planning Accreditation Board), the Center for Public Administration and Policy (accredited by NASPAA [Network of Schools of Public Policy, Affairs]), Government and International Affairs, and the Institute for Policy and Governance. With 60 faculty members and 400 undergraduate and graduate students (including 123 Ph.D. candidates), SPIA offers over 9,000 student credit hours annually and operates on a $4.2 million budget. The school, which offers 14 undergraduate and graduate degrees and certificate programs, has a presence in three Virginia locations: Blacksburg, Arlington, and Richmond.

Key Accomplishments:

- Led the school through the COVID-19 pandemic, ensuring continuity of instruction, research, and student support
- Expanded sponsored research funding to more than $2.3M (2022)
- Directed the launch of a redesigned SPIA website, increasing monthly web traffic by 230%
- Enhanced financial transparency by formalizing and broadening access to budget development and reporting processes
- Advanced capital and facility improvement initiatives across three Virginia locations
- Authored a comprehensive Promotion and Tenure Policy to standardize faculty advancement
- Implemented new marketing strategies, including regional bus and metro advertising campaigns
- Founded and published a monthly school newsletter, improving stakeholder communication and engagement

- Secured the university's 2020 Exemplary Department/Program Award for global teaching excellence at both undergraduate and graduate levels
- Significantly expanded digital engagement, achieving 28% growth on Facebook, 40% on Twitter, and 200% on LinkedIn
- Allocated curriculum development grants to faculty and emergency financial assistance to students during the COVID-19 crisis
- Initiated and formalized partnerships with multiple Virginia Tech research centers and institutes to strengthen interdisciplinary collaboration
- Led development of a 120-page Academic Program Review and a 31-page Financial White Paper for institutional planning
- Designed and executed two National Security Executive Leadership Programs, raising $15K+ in corporate sponsorships
- Increased Giving Day fundraising by 45% and strengthened undergraduate alumni engagement initiatives

2017-2018 American Council on Education Fellow, California State University –Northridge

- Competitively selected for the American Council on Education (ACE) Fellowship, a nationally recognized leadership development program preparing senior executives in higher education
- Collaborated directly with the President, Provost, and extended cabinet at California State University, Northridge (CSUN), contributing to institution-wide strategic planning
- Played a key role in developing three-year strategic plans (2017–2020) for all CSUN colleges, aligning college-level priorities with the university's "CSUN Shines for the Future" framework and its eight institutional goals
- Designed and quantified performance targets to increase graduation rates and close achievement gaps for full-time freshmen and transfer students across all colleges, in support of Graduation Initiative 2025
- Led the creation of a comprehensive cross-college inventory of student success interventions and metrics, organized across seven strategic domains:
 - Advisement
 - Curriculum, Enrollment, and Scheduling
 - Faculty Support and Engagement
 - Retention, Equity Gap, and Graduation
 - Staff Support and Engagement
 - Student Engagement and Belonging
 - Student Mentoring, Tutoring, and Online Education

2014-2017 Chair, Department of Political Science, Syracuse University

The Department of Political Science is a nationally ranked department (#48, U.S. News & World Report) in the Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs at Syracuse University. It has 33 tenure/tenure-track faculty, 640+ undergraduate majors, and 65 graduate students across BA, MA, and PhD programs. The department has a $2M+ annual operating budget and delivers 13,800+ student credit hours annually. Key Achievements:

- Increased undergraduate student credit hours by 6 percent through curricular and enrollment initiatives
- Recruited five assistant professors (including three women) and two postdoctoral fellows
- Oversaw promotion and tenure processes resulting in five successful faculty advancements
- Directed Middle States accreditation assessment and reporting for the department
- Advanced equity and compliance by analyzing and correcting gender-based salary disparities

- Expanded and modernized the curriculum with new upper- and mid-level undergraduate courses; retired outdated offerings and standardized course inventory
- Led comprehensive redesign of the department website to improve usability and external visibility
- Developed and implemented integrated assessment plans for undergraduate and graduate programs
- Updated and formalized departmental governance documents, including a full revision of Faculty Procedures and Evaluation Policy

2006-2009 Founding Co-Director, Religion, Media & International Affairs Program

- Co-founded and led a three-year interdisciplinary initiative supported by a $370,000 Henry Luce Foundation grant examining the role of religion in international affairs
- Provided strategic direction for program design, curriculum development, research production, and public engagement

Key Achievements:

- Developed 12 original teaching case studies on religion and international politics for use across multiple disciplines
- Designed and launched 10 new or substantially revised undergraduate and graduate courses aligned with program themes
- Conceived and organized a major international conference, Old and New Media, and the Changing Faces of Islam (2009), convening 10 leading journalists and scholars to advance interdisciplinary dialogue
- Selected as a participant in the Social Science Research Council's Program on Religion & International Affairs (2007–2010)
- Contributed to Rethinking Religion and World Affairs (Oxford University Press, 2012), extending the program's national and international scholarly impact

2001-2004 Director of Graduate Studies, Department of Political Science, Syracuse University

- Provided strategic oversight of doctoral and master's programs serving up to 65 enrolled PhD and MA students annually
- Chaired the graduate admissions process, leading holistic review of 120–180 applications per year

Key Achievements:

- Strengthened recruitment and yield by strategically bundling fellowships with summer research funding to attract top doctoral candidates
- Expanded and reallocated teaching assistant positions to support record undergraduate enrollment while protecting graduate student funding
- Led comprehensive redesign of PhD methodology requirements to improve rigor, coherence, and time-to-degree
- Clarified and standardized Oral Qualifying Examination policies to enhance transparency, equity, and completion outcomes
- Oversaw the compilation of comprehensive doctoral reading lists across all four subfields, strengthening curricular coherence and exam preparation
- Enhanced academic governance by requiring Graduate Studies Committee approval of all Programs of Study prior to comprehensive examinations
- Oversaw graduate funding, assistantship assignments, and departmental prize allocations to ensure alignment with academic priorities
- Revised Research Assistant allocation model, assigning six graduate students annually to faculty research projects to strengthen mentoring and research productivity

2003-2014 Founding Director of the Middle Eastern Studies Program (MESP)

Founded, scaled, and led an interdisciplinary area studies program for 11 years following September 11, 2001, building it into the university's largest and most visible regional studies concentration. Secured state authorization to offer undergraduate and graduate credentials and positioned the program as a hub for scholarship, teaching, and public engagement.

Key Achievements:

- Conceived and launched the Middle Eastern Studies Program; obtained New York State Department of Education approval to offer a major, minor, and Graduate Certificate of Advanced Study
- Secured $179,000 in U.S. Department of Education funding (with Miriam Elman) to strengthen curriculum, faculty development, and program infrastructure
- Raised $500,000 in philanthropic support from alumni and external donors to sustain program growth and enrichment
- Expanded Middle East-focused course offerings from fewer than 12 courses in 2003 to 25 by 2013; standardized and formalized 35 courses within the MESP curriculum
- Increased faculty participation and expertise in Middle Eastern studies from 15 to 25 faculty across multiple colleges and disciplines
- Facilitated extended campus residencies for eight Middle Eastern scholars (4–24 months), enhancing international visibility and research collaboration
- Led extensive international engagement, traveling throughout the Middle East to cultivate donor relationships, establish academic exchanges, and develop student internship pipelines
- Organized high-impact conferences, lectures, language tables, and film screenings; edited and published 11 program newsletters (2007–2013)
- Directed sustained community outreach initiatives, strengthening partnerships between the university and regional civic, educational, and cultural organizations

INTERNATIONALIZATION EXPERIENCE

At Syracuse University, I was entrusted with four roles aimed at expanding the university's international footprint:

2016-2017 Co-Chair, Internationalization Council: Led a university-wide council reporting to the Provost, advising on initiatives such as curriculum internationalization, study abroad programs, international student recruitment and integration, and regional studies programs

2015-2017 Inaugural Provost's Faculty Fellow for Internationalization and Representative to the American Council on Education Internationalization Laboratory: As the first to hold this position, I played a key role in shaping and implementing the university's internationalization strategy. Engaged with universities in China, Cyprus, and Greece, led SU's "China Team," and partnered with institutions such as Cornell University to advance international collaborations. I also conducted a comprehensive review of SU's international activities, from study abroad and global partnerships to faculty development.

2015 Syracuse University Representative to ACE's Institute for Leading Internationalization: Developed expertise in applying a comprehensive internationalization model to integrate global goals into the institution's mission.

2014-2016 Co-Chair, Academic Strategic Plan Working Group on Enhancing Internationalization: Integrated internationalization as a core principle in Syracuse University's new academic strategic plan and served as a primary author to strengthen global initiatives.

PUBLICATIONS

Books:

Post-revolutionary Iran: A Political Handbook (Syracuse University Press, 2018)

- Co-authored (with Kourosh Rahimkhani) this 853-page political encyclopedia providing the most comprehensive resource on post-revolutionary Iran's political landscape, featuring biographical profiles of over 2,300 political figures, a detailed chronology, in-depth coverage of 36 national elections, information on 400+ legal and banned political organizations, and analysis of elite family networks.
- The book was the focal point of a book review forum featuring five contributions in Iranian Studies 53, nos. 3-4 (May-August 2020), pp. 675-684.

Mirror for the Muslim Prince: Islam and Theory of Statecraft (Syracuse University Press, 2013; paperback edition 2017)

- This edited volume assembles a distinguished group of scholars to reinterpret the concepts and canons of Islamic thought across Arab, Persian, South Asian, and Turkish traditions, challenging the notion of a singular perspective on key issues of statecraft and governance. My contributions include a single-authored introduction and a co-authored chapter.
- Turkish edition (Siyasetname: İslami Bir Devlet İdaresi Teorisi) (Istanbul: al-Baraka, 2021).

SERVICE IN PROFESSIONAL ORGANIZATIONS & ASSOCIATIONS

- Served on the Program Committee for the Middle East Studies Association's 50th Anniversary Conference, held in Boston, Massachusetts, November 17–20, 2016.
- Served as President of the International Society for Iranian Studies (now the Association for Iranian Studies) from 2012 to 2014, leading a 700-plus member organization recognized as the premier professional association for Iranian Studies in the Western world. During this term, I formalized organizational rules, procedures, and governance guidelines to enhance transparency and consistency; organized a major international conference in Montreal that drew more than 400 participants from over 20 countries; and successfully negotiated a new publishing contract for the Association's flagship journal. I also revitalized the Association's communications and outreach by relaunching the biannual newsletter and digitizing its complete archive, establishing a new Facebook presence, expanding both individual and institutional membership, and securing external funding to create a new dissertation award.
- Additional service to the Association for Iranian Studies includes Chair of the Nominating Committee (2023); administrator of the Association's Facebook page (2014–2021); member of the Executive Council (1991–2001; 2014–2016); member of the Best Published Article Selection Committee in Iranian Studies (2006); and co-Chair of the Membership Committee (2005).
- Served as Institutional Trustee of the American Institute of Iranian Studies (2008-2014).
- Served as a member of the Social Science Research Council's Program on Religion & International Affairs from 2007 to 2010.
- Served as a member of the Advisory Board for the International Studies Review, a quarterly peer-reviewed journal published by the International Studies Association (ISA), from 2004 to 2006.
- Contributed to Educational Testing Service and the College Board in multiple capacities related to Advanced Placement Comparative Government and Politics. These roles included serving as an online tutor for Teaching Iran within the AP Comparative tutorial for AP teachers (December 2006); representing the AP Comparative Government and Politics Development Committee at the AP National Conference (2005); serving as a member of the AP Comparative Government & Politics Course and Examination Development Committee (2004–2008); and participating in the AP Comparative Government Working Group (2003–2004).

- Served on the Steering Committee for the Research Council of Norway–funded project Islam, Ethnicity, and Geopolitics along the Persian Gulf–Caspian Sea Axis (2001–2003).
- Played a leadership role within the Center for Iranian Research and Analysis by serving on its Executive Board from 1992 to 1998 and chairing the Annual Conference Program at Villanova University in 1994.
